New Head of Business Group North America

Greg Sibley is to become the new Head of Business Group North America and member of the Group Executive Board. He takes over from Fausto Bigi, Head of Business Group SAMEA (South America, Middle East and Africa), who has served as interim Head of Business Group North America since the beginning of the year.

The Board of Directors of Autoneum Holding Ltd has appointed Greg Sibley as the new Head of Business Group North America and member of the Group Executive Board. The U.S. citizen will start on May 15, 2019 as Deputy Head of Business Group North America and will assume responsibility for this Business Group from Fausto Bigi after a transition period on July 1. Bigi, Head of Business Group SAMEA, has served as interim Head of Business Group North America since the beginning of 2019.

Apart from an intermediate period, Greg Sibley worked for the US automotive supplier Tenneco from 1997 to 2015 where he held various management positions, among others as Vice President for the North American region of the Clean Air division and for Operations in Europe. From 2016 to 2018, he was President of the business unit Americas at automotive supplier Eberspaecher. Sibley has excellent knowledge of the US automotive market and comprehensive expertise in the areas of production, development and sales at leading automotive suppliers. He holds an MBA in Operations Management and Finance from the University of Michigan (Michigan), USA, and completed his engineering studies at Northwestern University in Chicago (Illinois), USA.
